IN THE COMMONS.

Several Amendments to the Home Rule Bill are Rejected.

LONDON, May 11.—In the commons today William Redmond, Parnell, moved an amendment to the home rule bill, that the two branches of the Irish legislature should be designated a senate and house of commons, which was rejected.

George Bartlett, Conservative for North Mington, moved the omission of the first clause of the home rule bill.

Joseph Chamberlain, Liberal-Unionist, commented upon the secrecy of amendments proposed by the government supporters. The government had closed its ears to argument.

Balfour moved that the chairman report progress.

Morley resisted and moved the closure. The chairman ignored Morley's motion, which was lost by a vote of 293 to 289.

WHAT CAN A MAN DO?

To save money. That is the burning question of the hour. What made J. L. Rawlinson resign from Congress? To save money, so he says, and he is right. No man can afford to sacrifice his individual interests for the public good, and he expects you to buy your wardrobe and other things at our shop unless we can sell you at prices that are as low or lower than the other shops offer. Try us, you carpenters, and be convinced we have the prices. Try us you housewives and get your tinware, granite ware, lawn mowers, everything for less money than you can do it elsewhere. Oh, we know we can please you if you take the trouble to investigate our prices and you owe it to yourselves to do it. WESTERN HARDWARE CO.

THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

Work of the Convention Completed and Adjournment Taken

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

W. W. Tracy of Springfield, Ill., Is Chosen President.

Arthur Brown and Hoyt Sherman of Salt Lake, are Elected Vice-President and Member of the Executive Committee Respectively.

LOUISVILLE, May 11.—By tomorrow morning the army of Republicans which has been enjoying Kentucky hospitality the past few days, will have disappeared.

The convention of the National Republican league adjourned this afternoon to meet again the second Wednesday of next May in Denver. At today's session, William W. Tracy, of Springfield, Ill., was elected president for the ensuing year.

His only opponents in the contest were M. H. De Young, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, and Daniel Hastings, of Pennsylvania. W. L. Square, of Toledo, who has been here since Sunday, making a fight for the position, with drawing, he said he wished to throw his strength to Mr. De Young.

There has been a great deal of adverse criticism upon the leaders of national republicanism, and the convention was called to order this morning it was noticed that no regular order had been adopted for its guidance and on motion of President Burke, of the College clubs, President Clarkson moved that the rules of the Fifty-first Congress (Tom Reed's Congress) be adopted. The motion was carried amid tremendous cheering. The report of the committee on credentials was adopted, as also the report of the committee on the passage by the legislature of a law for the safety of railway employees in pursuance of their rights; declares in favor of legislation to promote the interests of the workers and to harmonize the interests of capital and labor; recommends the adjustment of labor disputes by arbitration; declares faith in secret ballot backed by acts for suppression of corruption at elections, and demanded the abolition of the Pinkerton system and the suppression of all gambling in food products of the lottery tickets; urges an amendment to the constitution making the president eligible for a second term.

On the question of woman suffrage the platform says: "We recommend to the favorable consideration of the Republican clubs of the United States as a matter of education, the question of granting the women of the states and nations the right to vote at all elections on the same terms and conditions as the male citizens."

The Hawaiian plank is as follows: "The foreign policy of President Harrison and James G. Blaine deserves and receives the commendation of all Americans who believe in preserving the rights and dignity of the United States and extending the scope of its rights, in accordance with that policy we reaffirm our determination to encourage the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine; not only as it applies to the American continent, but also to those islands in the Atlantic and Pacific, which are or may become necessary to the protection of our coast line and our trade."

An amendment to the constitution was urged making the president ineligible for a second term and the report concluded.

"Whereas the Democratic party for the first time in thirty-two years has succeeded to power in its national executive and legislative departments of the government, we now direct attention to the fact that it should either give a fair trial of the policies advanced in its platform, or admit that it gained supremacy by gross misrepresentation and hypocrisy."

At the conclusion of the report Blount of Louisiana, colored, gained the floor and expressed astonishment that the commission had not lifted its voice against the outrages committed against the negroes in southern states. He was invited to the platform and vigorously denounced certain midnight assassinations which he claimed to have positive knowledge of.

Chairman Goodnow explained that the clause adopting the Republican platform included, of course, the clause denouncing outrages in the south.

About the only resolution which caused serious objection was that referring to woman suffrage. It was reported adversely by the sub-committee last evening and it was nearly 4 o'clock this morning before a decision was reached. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster occupied a seat on the platform and when the question came up she rose and spoke in support of the resolution when it was adopted by a vote of 185 who rose to her feet excitedly and shook hands with the secretary. The other resolutions were passed as read.

Then the roll was called and nominations for the presidents and members of the executive committee from the various states. Among the names are: California, vice-president, George C. Mason; member of executive committee, L. M. Trumbo; Montana, J. H. Collins; for both Washington, E. S. Meany and H. H. Wilson; for both New Jersey and Hoyt Sherman; Idaho, Martin B. Gurrin and A. C. Heitman.

Nominations for president were then called for. When California was called Mr. Stephens named W. H. Young of California, Illinois, through Mr. McConnell, named W. W. Tracy of Springfield, New Jersey, through T. F. Varney, named William W. Tracy of Pennsylvania. Mr. Campbell of New York seconded DeYoung's nomination. Graver of Nebraska seconded Tracy as did Colorado and Idaho. Something of a cyclone arose when Squire of Ohio seconded De Young. Jeremiah Foster of Pennsylvania nominated Cornell Daniel Hastings of Massachusetts seconded Tracy. The roll was then called and the first ballot resulted 113. Tracy 89. De Young 64. Hastings 43. Tracy's election was immediately unanimous.

The new president was escorted to the chair amid a storm of applause and made a brief speech, thanking the convention and assuring the members that the young Republican of Illinois would see to it that the state soon resumes its former position in the Republican column. If the Republican party is to be successful in the future, said Mr. Tracy, it must obtain victory over these clubs the allegiance of thousands of young men who yearly enter upon the threshold of manhood. Over 8,000,000 of these young men thirty-five years of age and under will participate in the next national election, and over 1,000,000 will cast their first vote at that time. In the hands of these young men rests the future political destiny of our nation. We must now try to interest them in our organization and to be successful must at all times take an advanced position in the daily increasing problems of party and national interest. In a word, let the one principle that guides us be that forever and tomorrow shall be a grand and beneficent advantage tomorrow yesterday, and then as the Republican party goes marching down the ages, gathering renewed honor and glory with each succeeding year, the young men of the National Republican league will always be in the van.

At the afternoon session the election of secretary and treasurer were referred to the executive committee.

Additional resolutions reported by the committee on resolutions were: Deploing the loss of James G. Blaine and Rutherford B. Hayes; providing for the appointment of a committee of nine to investigate and report annually upon the condition of the Republican party in the southern states, which was adopted, as also the following:

The Republican party is the party of the people and the purpose of its creation was the destruction of slavery and the greatest possible expansion of human liberty in the land. It knows no sect or creed and therefore the exclusion of any person from any Republican club or organization on account of his religious belief merits the severest condemnation of the league. The league then adjourned.

The executive committee of the league adjourned at 1 o'clock tonight. The election of a secretary and treasurer was left to the sub-committee of twelve.

Republicans College League.

LOUISVILLE, May 11.—The National Republican College League tonight elected the following officers: L. R. Hawkins of Syracuse university, president; E. M. Wolfe of the University of California, vice-president; W. Gould of Purdue university, second vice president; A. J. Falkner and A. O. Lundstrum, of Knox college, Illinois, third and fourth vice-presidents; Julius Travis, of the University of Michigan, secretary, and J. B. Kurtz of Columbia, Pa., treasurer.

BRITISH JOURNALISTS.

Distinguished Editors from London Visiting Salt Lake.

Two distinguished London journalists, Thomas Callaghan, editor of Lloyd's Weekly London Newspaper, which has a circulation of 750,000, and Mr. Alfred H. Haues, business manager of the great London Chronicle, are spending a few days in Salt Lake. They visited the press club last evening, and although wholly unexpected, were given a warm welcome by the members.

These gentlemen came to America with a number of British journalists to visit the World's fair and take notes of American enterprise. They pronounce the Coliseum a masterpiece of engineering in extent and magnificence to any international fair ever given. They are deeply interested in the silver question, which they consider the burning issue of the day, and although firm believers in the gold standard, are anxious to obtain the views of the silver men and the west, and W. C. B. Allen succeeded in interesting them in that subject. Last night the evening Judge Goodwin came up and assisted in entertaining the visitors.

Her Explanation.

Mistress (Hudding visitor in kitchen)—"Who is this, Mary?"

Mary (confused)—"My brother, m'm."

Mistress (suspiciously)—"You're not much alike."

Mary (stammering, apologetically)—"We were, m'm, but he has been shaved off, and that makes him look different, m'm."

A Grand Scheme.

"That's a great scheme they have in Boston horse cars now."

"What's that?"

"All the car windows are glazed for astigmatism."
